

AMENDMENTS TO THE SPECIFICATION:

Please replace the paragraph on page 4, lines 21-27, through page 5, lines 1-2 as follows

In yet another novel aspect, an electronic document management system comprising a PC type computer connected in a parallel cluster, said computer using an operating system that stores electronic documents substantially equally ~~in a hard disk drive~~ throughout the cluster, said operating system defining a document identification tag where each document is identified by its files extension that is converted to ASCII text and given a unique identification number, each of a plurality of documents having at least one of either meta-data, text or attachments identified for retrieval that are indexed for web-based retrieval from the cluster database, said identification of the plurality of documents forming a cluster data base that is web-searchable by use of a predetermined descriptive term.